When it comes to job site safety, thinking quickly can save lives. Start by always being aware of your surroundings—that's See It. Spot hazards like unstable equipment, obstructed walkways, or unsafe behavior before they become dangerous. Next, Say It. Speak up and notify your coworker or supervisor right away. A simple, calm heads-up can make a big difference. Finally, Solve It. If it's safe, take action to fix the hazard yourself—whether that's securing a ladder, removing a tripping hazard, or marking off a danger zone. Remember, safety is a team effort, and your voice and actions matter. See It. Say It. Solve It.
